A SEMI-MONTHLY UPDATE ON COMMUNITY MENTAL HEALTH IN NEW YORK

City budget moving

On Wednesday, May 17th Coalition Executive Director Phillip A. Saperia testified before the New York City Council Finance Committee about the needs of the nonprofit mental health community. Foremost on the agenda is a restoration of $3.05 million in behavioral health care cuts proposed by Mayor Giuliani. The rest of The Coalition's agenda, approved without dissent at a meeting of The Coalition's Government Relations Committee on May 12th includes:

- $1.5 million 'network of support' for SED kids in the child welfare system and their families. Money would be used to link abused and neglected children to services, build necessary program capacity and provide case management.
- $1.5 million for MICA services

Work and Wellness Act needs your help

On May 9th the Assembly Social Services Committee passed the Work and Wellness Act of 2000 (A.10159/S.7392). Passage of the Work and Wellness Act, sponsored by Assembly Mental Health Committee Chair James Brennan and Staten Island Senator John J. Marchi, is necessary for New York to fully implement the Federal Work Incentives Improvement Act. The bill will enable people with disabilities to purchase, at a reasonable cost, Medicaid insurance if and when their income exceeds the limits for Medicaid as an entitlement. This legislation is crucial to the efforts to help people with mental illness take their rightful place in the competitive labor force.

The Coalition and the New York Work Exchange have been working with a broad group of disability rights advocates for passage of the Work and Wellness Act. Six states have already begun implementation of the law after receiving approval from HCFA; nine others have passed the bill but not yet obtained HCFA authorization. Assembly passage is expected within the next two weeks. Passage in the Senate is not at all certain.

Briefs readers are encouraged to contact their State Senator to urge co-sponsorship of this landmark legislation and to encourage them to express their support to Senate Majority Leader Joseph L. Bruno, Senate Social Services Committee Chair Raymond Meier and Senate Health Committee Chair Kemp Hannon.

If you do not know who your State Senator is, use the Representative Finder feature on The Coalition's website at www.cvmha.org or contact Joshua Rubin at (212) 586-4555x17. ©

State budget process completed

Mental Hygiene Budget Subcommittee recommendations accepted

Lingering fears of potential line-item vetoes of the legislature's budget adds were put to rest as the deadline for vetoes came and went without drama. Final details of the adopted budget are as follows:

Governor's proposal adopted

- $17.8 million Kendra's law implementation – for case management and ACT teams
- $15 million Kendra's law medication grants to provide medication and medication management to individuals released from jails, hospitals and inpatient psychiatric facilities and for periodic blood tests to ensure compliance with medication and substance abuse treatment
- $14.8 million Additional adult case management (estimated to be up to 10,000 new slots)
- $14.65 million 2,000 new Supported Housing units
- $7.1 million 310 new Home and Community Based Waiver slots for SED children

Employment conference

On June 20th the New York Work Exchange, The Coalition and the New York State Council for Community Behavioral Healthcare will present a conference entitled: The Mission for the 21st Century: Employment Services for people with Mental Illness. It will be a day of presentations, discussions and discovery to encourage and support the active inclusion of employment services in both clinical and psychosocial rehabilitation programs.

Topics will include: "One Size DOES NOT Fit All" a discussion of the problems inherent in the system wide adoption of a single service model and focus on the usefulness of the development of eclectic approaches that incorporate the best features of each model, by IAPRS CEO Ruth Hughes; "How to use the ADA, WIA and TWWIA to Get People to Work" presented by Pope Simmons from NCCBH and Edwin Lopez-Soto, JD, Staff Attorney for Greater Upstate Law Project and a Luncheon Presentation, "Employment of People Living with Mental Illness: A New York Vision" by Neal Cohen, MD New York City Commissioner of Health and Mental Health, James Stone New York State Commissioner of Mental Health and Beatrice Disman, Regional Director, SSA (invited).

Other topics include a discussion of the success through innovation that some providers have had in getting jobs for people and getting them to work; "Symptom Management in the Workplace" and "What Do We Want: A Consumer View of Employment Services." Registration materials for the conference will be mailed shortly.©

Welcome aboard

We're Working! The New York Work Exchange welcomes three new staff members to its Technical Assistance Team. Richard Chimelis, serving as Team Leader, will be the initial contact for programs seeking on-site support. Debbi Talbott & Shaleigh Tice will be providing general TA on employment services as well as specific training on models of employment & peer support systems. We welcome them to the Exchange & look forward to introducing them to our community at the June 20th Conference.©

Assembly addresses forensic mental health

Assembly Mental Health Committee Chair James Brennan has convened a working group on forensic mental health issues. The group, formed in response to a March 2nd joint hearing of the Assembly Committee on Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, Assembly Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse, Assembly Committee on Correction and Assembly Committee on Codes entitled Mental Hygiene Services in Local Correctional Institutions. The working group, at which Joshua Rubin represented The Coalition, met for the first time on Wednesday May 16th to investigate ways to solve the problem of transinstitutionalization.©

Better treatment for depression

The May 18th issue of the New England Journal of Medicine contains "A Comparison of Nefazodone, the Cognitive Behavioral Analysis System of Psychotherapy, and Their Treatment of Chronic Depression." The study compares the effectiveness of drug therapy to psychotherapy for people with chronic forms of depression.

519 research participants completed the study. One group received only psychotherapy, another received only nefazodone and a third group received both therapy and medication. 55% of the subjects who received only drugs showed at least a 50% decline in their Hamilton Rating Scale for Depression score. 52% of the clients

GAO report on mental health parity focuses on failings of Federal legislation... and need for State action

On May 18, 2000, The United States General Accounting Office (GAO) delivered a report to the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions entitled Mental Health Parity Act: Despite New Federal Standards, Mental Health Benefits Remain Limited. GAO surveyed 1,656 employers with more than 50 employees in the 26 States and the District of Columbia (including New York) that have no State parity requirement.

Although much of the news in the report is discouraging, it is not all bad. Among the key findings highlighted by the GAO are:

- 14 percent of plans are non-compliant with federal regulations, placing different dollar limits on mental health services.
- Among compliant plans, 87 percent have at least one restrictive design feature, i.e. 65 percent of plans still limit outpatient visits and inpatient days.
- About two-thirds of compliant plans made a mental health design feature more restrictive to offset the costs of parity in dollar limits.
- Only three percent of employers reported that compliance with the law increased their costs. Nearly no employers reported that they had dropped mental health benefits altogether to avoid needing to comply with the law.

- Estimates of the cost of complying with the parity bill are less than one percent.

The limitations of the Federal legislation demonstrate the vital need for New York State to finally adopt comprehensive mental health parity legislation. Briefs readers are encouraged to contact their representatives to express support for A.6325 (Brennan) and S.2089 (Libous).©

- on the Cumberland Family Health and Support Center model, integrating mental health, substance abuse, case management, physical health and childcare services. Funding enables the program to treat the whole family including after-school programs for kids, job training and benefits counseling. This enriched, integrated model should be replicated in the other four boroughs without strict eligibility requirements.
- $200,000/year for three years to provide training and technical assistance in the areas of managed care, continuous quality improvement and outcomes measurement and to provide management tools to nonprofit community mental health care providers for the purposes of improving the quality of care.

- $14 million capital dollars to fully match the State's commitment to provide housing for people with mental illness who are not NY/NY eligible. The legislature allocated $40 million for New York City, but required a local match. So far $26 million has been secured.©

Coalition honors Gail Nayowith

At the 16th Annual Mental Health Awards The Coalition will honor Citizens' Committee for Children of New York Executive Director Gail Nayowith. Before coming to CCC Gail worked for New York City in the Department of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Alcoholism Services, Department of Health, Human Resources Administration and the Health and Hospitals Corporation. who received only psychotherapy demonstrated similar reductions in symptomatology. However, fully 85% of people who received both forms of treatment responded. "The combination of the two is significantly more efficacious than either treatment alone," according to the authors of the study.

In a related editorial in the same issue Jan Scott, M.D. declares, "Patients who received cognitive therapy plus medication had significantly fewer unscheduled visits with their psychiatrists. Such findings are clearly important in a consideration of the overall benefits and costs of treatment." We agree.©
